It is madness to interpret the spirit of a people by generalization. But it is not untimely to point out that community ideal of efficiency. We in Richmond are paying the price of this kind of sentiment. Men are elected to office on sentimental grounds of friendship, kinship, or party loyalty.

They in turn choose other men for the spirit of the dealst of the payment of 10 cents extra. ### On the Spur of the Moment. By Roy K. Moulton.

The man who goes to Timbuctoo
Has got a sinecure clear through.
He doesn't have to worry o'er the articles of dress;
An old plug hat is all he needs
And then, perhaps, a string of beads.
The rest of his apparel he can simpiy guess,

The life out there is simply grand;
A feller just sits in the stand
And watches the graceful seaguil in his native habitat.
The n tives come and make salaam
And bow their heads to Uncle Sam.
I never will be happy until I get a job like that.

vice."
This is not likely to prove attractive reading to all Miss Glasgow's friends, especially in the South. The writer thinks that the South, like other sections, has its share of sentimentality, but does not believe sentimentality in the South is subservient to truth.

Mr. Garber Repudiates Statement.

IT'S A BOY!

By John T. McCutcheon.

I want to emphatically state that I have neither spoken to any member of the Street Committee, nor the City Engineer in reference to the Fulton Hill route. My only objection had been to one square of the proposed route, that is, Williamsburg Avenue, lying between Louisiana Street and Orleans Street, which the engineer of the Richmond and Henrico Railway Company says there is no occasion for.
